

CURRENT QUINNIPIAC UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS APPLICATION for the BFA degree program in Film, Television and Media Arts
Quinnipiac University School of Communications

Current Quinnipiac University students who have completed two semesters of undergraduate education (or hold sophomore status) may apply for fall admission or spring admission to the FTM bachelor of fine arts (BFA) program. Applications are due Aug. 1 for fall admission or Jan. 15 for spring admission. Students not admitted for fall term may reapply only once for admission for the following spring term.

Important: To submit an FTM/BFA Application, current college students must have an overall University GPA of 3.0, and a 3.25 GPA in all film, television or interactive media courses undertaken at the college level.

Applicant check list:

1. Original signed copy of the BFA application form
2. Typed application essay (double-spaced, Courier font, size 12, not more than two pages in length). Essay must explain the following:
 - Why do you wish to pursue this degree? Specifically reflect on your personal, national and international perspective.
 - Which filmmakers and/or television producers have influenced your work? Give examples and explain how they've influenced you, or how you'd like to emulate their work.
3. Critical essay sample: submit a copy (no originals) of a graded academic research paper or formal essay you have written for any high school or college level class (e.g. Film Studies; Anthropology; etc.) This cannot be a creative written piece (short story, poem, etc.). Please include the date of the work, class name, instructor's name and school.

4. Creative writing sample: submit a two or three page (maximum) original narrative scene authored by you in professional screenplay format.

5. DVD portfolio: Show us up to six samples of your best creative work in a DVD. At least five minutes, but no more than 15 minutes, please. In addition to samples of your films/videos, you may include original photography or photos of your drawings, paintings, sculpture, or even computer art, performance or sound compositions. We want to see how creative you are.

Important note: all material must be shot/created by you.

Judging Process:

A Film, Television and Media Arts panel of judges will review the application materials and select applicants who demonstrate a strong potential for creative independent film, television or media arts work.

Important: Judges will reject incomplete applications and applications where the student's name appears on any of the media or accompanying documents. The only place the student's name should appear is on the top sheet of the application. All other documents and media must be identified only by the last four numbers of the student's high school, college or university ID number. If your application is rejected for these reasons only, you may immediately resubmit with the original materials (without your name) and with the addition of any materials missing from the original application.

Submit all application materials except the portfolio as hard paper copies. Please send all materials by US mail, FedEx or UPS to:
