UNDERGRADUATE COMMENCEMENT

E X E R C I S E S

Saturday the Eighteenth of May Sunday the Nineteenth of May 2019

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Congratulations to the Class of 2019 as we celebrate this memorable milestone in your lives. I'm delighted also to welcome your families and friends whose contributions to your successes have been significant.

I trust your time at Quinnipiac has prepared you to be contributing citizens in your communities and engaged professionals in careers in the 21st century. Help us shape the bright future for our university as you stay connected to your classmates and deepen the many friendships formed here for the rest of your lives.

Commencement is a time to celebrate your accomplishments and anticipate, with excitement, your future as it unfolds. This is truly a beginning of your professional lives. I hope you will drive them with purpose, integrity and passion for your chosen careers. Enjoy this moment and know that we will be cheering you on and will be proud of your accomplishments.

Best regards,

Judy D. Olian

Commencement Speaker | Bryan Donahue

As a third-generation U.S. Marine, Bryan Donahue learned about discipline, drive and leadership at a young age. Those early lessons of courage and character served him well after he was diagnosed at 22 with a deadly liver disease and given less than six months to live. More than two decades later, Donahue stands as a survivor, a motivational speaker and author of “On Borrowed Time, How I Built a Life While Beating Death.” His story chronicles life after a liver transplant.

In addition to serving in the Marine Corps, Donahue earned a bachelor of science in sociology from Southern Connecticut State University. He’s also the veteran adviser to the Vets Rock program at Mohegan Sun; president and chairman of Fisher House in Boston, which helps veterans and their families; a recipient of the Boston Bruins 8-Spoked Salute, which is given to military members for their service to country and community; and the namesake of the Bryan Donahue Humanitarian Award, given each year to a graduating eighth-grader at North Haven Middle School in Connecticut. Donahue lives in North Haven with his wife, Lia, and their two children, Lily and Brooks.

Honorary Degree Recipient and Commencement Speaker | Reginald Dwayne Betts

Reginald Dwayne Betts is an award-winning poet, memoirist and teacher. He is the author of three books, including the poetry collection, “Bastards of the Reagan Era,” which won the 2016 PEN New England Award in Poetry, and the memoir, “A Question of Freedom,” winner of the 2010 NAACP Image Award.

Betts found both solace and his calling in literature while serving a nine-year prison sentence for a carjacking as a teenager. Following his release in 2005, Betts earned a BA from the University of Maryland on a full scholarship. He is a graduate of Warren Wilson College’s MFA Program for Writers, and he earned a JD from Yale Law School, where he is currently a PhD candidate.

Betts’s work explores the cultural implications of the national crack epidemic and the War on Drugs of the ’80s and ’90s, as well as the physical and spiritual torments of incarceration. His poetry has appeared in numerous literary journals and has garnered him fellowships from the Ruth Lilly and Cave Canem foundations. His upcoming collection, “Felon,” will be published in October.

Honorary Degree Recipient and Commencement Speaker | Javier Polit

Javier Polit is chief information officer at Procter & Gamble and leader of its Information Technology global organization that harnesses data, analytics and artificial intelligence to drive business growth. He is recognized as a global technology thought leader and, as P&G's CIO, has overseen an unprecedented investment in IT by the multinational corporation.

A native of Ecuador, Polit earned his MBA from Purdue University and later graduated from Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program. Prior to joining P&G, Polit held several executive positions. At the Coca-Cola company, he served as global director for business intelligence and distribution systems and later as global chief information officer for bottling investments. He was also vice president for global corporate systems at Office Depot.

Outside of P&G, Polit serves on several advisory boards, including AT&T's Executive Customer Advisory Council and the CIO Advisory Board for Dell. He also lends his leadership and support to many philanthropic organizations, including Special Olympics, the International Children's Foundation and Ronald McDonald House. He was named CIO of the year by the Latinos in Information Sciences and Technology Association and is dedicated to creating opportunities for Hispanic Americans.

Mace and Medallion

The mace—a symbol of authority—has antecedents in both Roman and Medieval history. The Roman mace (fascēs) was carried by a lictor before the chief magistrate of the city, as well as before the legions. During the Middle Ages, the mace (mateola), a weapon of war, became first a symbol of victory and then a symbol of authority. The mace emblazoned with the Great Seal of England became a symbol of authority in Parliament by the end of the 13th century. It is this form of the mace that was the prototype of those symbols of authority, not only of legislative bodies, but also of cities and universities.

In 1246, following some 20 years of strife, the University of Paris was finally conceded the right to its own common seal. Since then, the use of the seal engraved on the mace has come to symbolize the authority of the academic community. In July 2000, Quinnipiac commissioned the noted sculptor Robert Meyer of Westport, Connecticut, to design and execute a new mace for Quinnipiac University. Cast in bronze, the mace incorporates elements of the university seal.

The medallion (medal of office), like the mace and the seal, is also a symbol of authority. It is possible that its roots may be traced back to the Roman “bullā” (a gold amulet of honor). The obverse of the medallion shows the seal of the office the wearer holds—in our case, the seal of the university. Not infrequently, the reverse would show the personal seal or coat of arms of the bearer. Since the High Middle Ages, the medallion has been worn by such officials as the chancellors of England, mayors of cities, and rectors of universities, and came to signify the high personal position such figures occupied in their respective governments. During the Renaissance, medallion design reached unique artistic heights, and in certain portraits the medallion was given particular prominence. The medallion is worn by the university’s president. The Quinnipiac medal showcases the university seal, sculpted in relief and cast in bronze.

Academic Regalia

The pageantry and dress of the academic procession have been inherited from the medieval universities of the 11th and 12th centuries. Academic life as we know it today began in the Middle Ages, first in the Church, then in the guilds. The teaching guild was the guild of the Master of Arts, where Bachelor was the apprentice of the Master, and the dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility. Principal features of the academic dress are the gown, cap and hood.

The Gown: The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress of rank or social standing. It is black for all degrees, with pointed sleeves for the bachelor’s degree, long closed sleeves with a slit at the arm or wrist for the master’s degree, and full bell sleeves for the doctoral degree.

The Cap: When Rome freed the slaves, they won the privilege of wearing caps. The academic cap is a sign of freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book.

The Hood: The color facing the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree. The color of the lining designates the college or university from which the degree was granted.

The Cord: The colors associated with the various honor societies are listed below.

NURSING PLEDGE

I do solemnly pledge before this assembly to provide holistic care to all those in need of my disciplinary knowledge and skills. I will use clinical reasoning when providing nursing care. I will continually seek new knowledge and assist in knowledge development to guide nursing practice. I will enter into each nursing situation with an open mind. Through personal knowing I will use myself therapeutically when interacting with patients. My care will be rooted in ethics as defined in the American Nurses' Association code of ethics. I will engage in praxis to seek out and change social and political injustices that affect the health of individuals, communities and populations. I will use my knowledge, skills and beliefs to work as a member of the interdisciplinary health care team to provide safe, patient- and family-centered care.

(adapted in 2010 from the Nightingale Pledge, originally composed by Lystra Gretter)

Quinnipiac University

Quinnipiac is a dynamic, three-campus university where professors who want to know students by name come to teach, and where students who want a personal, challenging education come to learn.

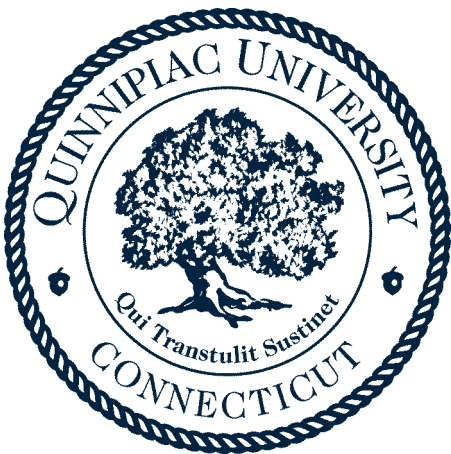

Located in Hamden and North Haven, Connecticut, Quinnipiac's top-rated academics, low faculty-to-student ratio and Division I athletics are just some of the reasons why it is consistently ranked among the best universities by U.S. News & World Report and The Princeton Review. It is one of 100 universities to have both a law school and a medical school with the opening of the Frank H. Netter MD School of Medicine in 2013, and its Polling Institute is respected by media organizations around the globe.

Faculty members are experts in their fields and generous with their time. The university prepares students for success in business, communications, education, engineering, health sciences, law, medicine, nursing, and the arts and sciences. More than 110 programs are offered to 7,000 undergraduate and 3,000 graduate, law and medical students.

Our facilities are first-rate. Students simulate the buying and selling of stocks in the Terry W. Goodwin '67 Financial Technology Center, produce news packages in the fully digital, high-definition broadcast studio and study how the human body moves in the motion analysis laboratory.

Quinnipiac's 250-acre Mount Carmel Campus, next to Sleeping Giant State Park, contains academic buildings that primarily support undergraduate programs and residence halls. The nearby 250-acre York Hill Campus houses the People's United Center, more residence halls, and the Rocky Top Student Center. A third 150-acre campus in North Haven serves as home to most of the university's graduate programs.

Throughout its rich history, Quinnipiac has remained true to its three core values: high-quality academic programs, a student-oriented environment and a strong sense of community.
