During the reporting period one position was vacated and filled. The position of Assistant General Manager for Operations was vacated March 1, 2016 and filled as a full-time position of Operations Manager September 19, 2016

Initiatives:

- WQUN and WQAQ recruit and hire up to five paid Quinnipiac University undergraduate and graduate interns each academic semester. WQUN also hires and recruits summer college interns. Interns work between 5 to 15 hours per week each semester and up to 20 hours per week each summer. General duties include news gathering and reporting, audio editing, marketing, voice-overs and production, music compilation, and assistance in the production of Quinnipiac University sporting event broadcasts. During the reporting period six interns worked a total of 880 combined hours.
- WQUN hosted a meeting and career seminar for the Southern New England Chapter of the National Association of Black Journalists February 6, 2016. Ten journalists from three states attended the conference at the WQUN broadcast facilities in Hamden, CT.
- WQUN participates in the Connecticut Broadcasters scholarship program by broadcasting a series of on-air announcements to attract applicants when there is the opening for applications. Each March and April WQUN airs these announcements as directed.
